YARRA GLEN CEMETERY

A HISTORIC COMMUNITY CEMETERY

The Yarra Glen Cemetery is a small, grassed cemetery set in a tranquil native setting reflective of a typical Australian bush landscape. Located on a gentle rise with views of the surrounding ranges, the special appeal of the location lies in its open aspect which captures the immensity of the sky and mountains, and views of the stunning Yarra Valley.

The original entrance gate, made of simple square-section columns of rendered brick with pyramid shaped tops and iron gates, is located in Eltham-Yarra Glen Road. A plaque at the gate reads, "These gates were presented to the Yarra Glen Cemetery Trust by N. Ellis Esq J.P. A member of the Trust for 30 years on the occasion of his 81st birthday. 26.12.29".

The earliest graves at Yarra Glen Cemetery date from the late 1800's/early 1900's and, right through to present-day, the cemetery remains a key part of the local community, providing for both burials and cremated remains memorials.

Monumental Graves

BURIALS

LAWN GRAVES

Yarra Glen Cemetery provides the modern option of lawn burial set amongst the native landscape and historic headstone monuments. This area is set with a concrete beam on which memorial plaques can be mounted, although plaques may also be attached to a concrete or granite desk in small, medium or large sizes.

MONUMENTAL GRAVES

These graves allow for the installation of a solid and impressive stone monument that covers the length and breadth of the grave in place of grassed lawn. Usually made from granite or marble, these monuments are created in conjunction with your choice of stonemason.

Monumental Graves at Yarra Glen Cemetery also allow for smaller monuments, headstones and/or plaques to be installed, creating unique variations in cemetery configuration and ambience (as shown in photo)
