The Greater Metropolitan
Cemeteries Trust
Lasting memories, peaceful places.

ABOUT THIS DOCUMENT:

During 2015/2016 The Greater Metropolitan Cemetery Trust (GMCT) developed a series of short histories as part of its obligations under the Public Records Act 1973. The documents focus on the administrative history of each cemetery, providing a range information which may be useful to researchers, including a brief historical overview, timeline and bibliography. GMCT gratefully acknowledges the work of Dr Jan Penney and Sarah Hurley in the development of this document.

Cemeteries are controlled by a Trust appointed by the Governor in Council on the recommendation of the responsible Minister. The Greater Metropolitan Cemeteries Trust is a Class A Trust and a body corporate with perpetual succession established by the Governor in Council pursuant to regulations under the Cemeteries Act 1958 and updated within the Cemeteries and Crematoria Act 2003. The Trust is responsible for the maintenance of the cemetery, the handling of funds and the erection of monuments. Core services include interment in graves, interment in mausolea, interment of cremated remains, cremations, venue hire, hospitality, memorialisation, perpetual maintenance, archival cemetery and genealogical records and community events.

From 1864 to August 1873 The Commissioner of Public Works and the Public Works Department were responsible for cemeteries including the appointment of Trustees and fees charged (VRG28). From 1873 to 1888 The Commissioner of Crown Lands and Survey and the Department of Crown Lands and Survey were responsible (VG18). In 1888 the Chief Secretary and his Department (VRG26) were in control of cemeteries, but in 1890 the Minister for Health and the Department of Public Health (VRG39) become responsible under the Public Health Act 1889 – 53 (Vic No:1044).¹ In 1944 the new Ministry of Health Act (1943) and the Cemeteries Act 1944 (5025) saw the Minister for Health and the Department of Health become the responsible entity.² On 1 January 2015 the Department of Health and Human Services was formed, integrating the Department of Health and the Department of Human Services Sport and Recreation.

In 2002 the government initiated a Report on the financial viability of Cemetery Trusts which raised a number of concerns over the viability, financial management and governance of some cemeteries.³ In 2004 The Department of Human Services was advised of concerns related to probity at some cemeteries and the Auditor General completed a review which was reported to Parliament in May 2005.⁴ As a result the Minister for Health requested the Auditor General to widen the Review to include all major cemeteries⁵ Government then initiated a review of the major cemetery trusts under section 50 of the Public Services Act (relating largely to the governance and effectiveness of the cemetery sector as a whole) which was undertaken by the State Services Authority and tabled in Parliament in June 2007.⁶

In July 2008 the State Government announced reforms to the fourteen major metropolitan and regional Cemetery Trusts that report to Parliament.⁷ Two major metropolitan Trusts were created, the Southern Metropolitan Cemeteries Trust, and the Greater Metropolitan Cemeteries Trust, three regional Class A Trusts and five other Trusts. Another major review of the five Class A Trusts was completed in May 2013 to ensure that the reforms were proceeding smoothly.⁸

Greater Metropolitan Cemeteries Trust was formed in 2010 and assumed responsibility for twenty cemetery sites.⁹

Templestowe Cemetery, Memorial Gardens & Chapel is administered by the State Government through an independent Trust Board, the Greater Metropolitan Cemeteries Trust, Class A, established in 2010.¹⁰

Templestowe Cemetery, Memorial Gardens & Chapel covers 3.9 hectares and is situated in the eastern suburbs of Melbourne.¹¹ It offers burial services and interment of cremated remains.¹² The cemetery at Templestowe also includes a variety of monuments, lawn graves and niche walls, against a hilled, green landscape, with a Chapel at its backdrop.¹³

On 9 July 1858, Trustees were appointed for the ground set apart at Templestowe as a site for a general cemetery.¹⁴ They were the first in a series of Trustees, governing Templestowe in accordance with the Rules and Regulations published in the Victorian Government Gazette, from 1858 until 2010.¹⁵ Although the Trust was only ever responsible for the Templestowe Cemetery, Memorial Gardens & Chapel, it had a continuous relationship with surrounding cemeteries at Lilydale, Anderson's Creek and Burwood, as well as interaction with the Bendigo Cemeteries Trust.¹⁶ As one of the larger and more-established cemeteries in the eastern suburbs, Templestowe Cemetery, Memorial Gardens & Chapel cooperated with smaller, surrounding cemeteries and had an interest in their success.¹⁷

The first burial at Templestowe Cemetery occurred on 20 March 1860, in memory of the enfant, William Hurlily.¹⁸ This is a rare early record, however, as most burial registers prior to 1879 were ill kept and are difficult to uncover.¹⁹ Those records that are available, though, reflect a small, rural community at Templestowe that expanded from the 1960s onwards to become more multicultural, with a variety of denominations.²⁰ This changing community impacted on the cemetery, allowing for the introduction of Lawn graves on 19 October 1968, and a Children's section on 8 July 1972.²¹

On 8 April 1987, Templestowe Cemetery, Memorial Gardens & Chapel was officially closed by the Victorian Government.²² Numerous changes have been made to the interior of the cemetery since 1987 to reopen the cemetery and create new places of interment.²³ Variations to the closing order of Templestowe Cemetery occurred on 12 July 1988 following a change in the cemetery's road network.²⁴ On 6 February 1991, 43 vaults were introduced to reopen the cemetery at Templestowe.²⁵ A further 62 vaults were then installed on 18 Dec 2006.²⁶ Lastly, an amendment on 1 July 2005 to the Crematoria and Cemeteries Act 2003 made new grave sites available at Templestowe, as space between graves was reduced to allow for additional third burials in certain graves.²⁷

Further attempts were made by the Templestowe Trust to allow for additional internments, involving proposals to buy additional land. The earliest purchase of land by the Trust was made on 7 August 1908.²⁸ The urgency for increasing space at Templestowe Cemetery, Memorial Gardens & Chapel reflected a sudden and continuous rise in public interest from the 1960s onwards.²⁹ The Trust purchased land adjacent to the cemetery on 4 November 1978, and another four acres on 5 April 1979.³⁰ On 18 October 1980, land within Templestowe Cemetery, Memorial Gardens & Chapel was rezoned, creating more internment sites, followed two years later on 5 June 1982 with the purchase of additional land from MMBW.³¹ Several land purchase requests by the Trust were refused by the Department of Health during the 1970s and 1990s due to insufficient Trust funds.³² One example was the unsuccessful proposal to buy land adjacent to the cemetery on 27 July 1968.³³

From 28 February 1967, the newly established City of Doncaster and Templestowe Council began working with the Templestowe Cemetery Trust to administer the Templestowe Cemetery, Memorial Gardens & Chapel, in accordance with the Cemeteries Act (1958).³⁴ The local council became involved in purchasing land for the cemetery and, later, ensuring the cemetery remained open during its period of increasing popularity. Doncaster and Templestowe Council organized additional land for the Templestowe Cemetery when widening the northern boundary along Foote Street on 23 April 1988.³⁶ At various times, councilors were on the Templestowe Cemetery Trust.³⁷

Management of Templestowe Cemetery was transferred from Manningham Council on 15 December 1994 and is now administered by the government through an independent Trust Board, the Greater Metropolitan Cemeteries Trust, established in 2010.³⁸
